The Lions Young Ambassadors of the 21st Century Award program is part of the Lions Opportunities for Youth initiative. The mission of Lions Opportunities for Youth is:

To provide the young people of the world with opportunities for achievement, learning, contribution and service, individually and collectively, through sponsorship of activities identified as best practices in the field of youth development.
By example and through encouragement, Lions play an important role in fostering leadership qualities and community service commitment in young people. The Lions Young Ambassadors of the 21st Century Award program expands Lions opportunities to inspire and recognize outstanding youth.

The award recognizes young people (suggested ages 15-19) for their outstanding community service involvement, leadership accomplishments, public speaking skills and scholastic achievement. Recommended for the district, multiple district and constitutional area levels, the award provides youth with an incentive to excel in service and leadership.

At the same time, the award program enables a Lions district/multiple district to challenge young people and provide resulting benefits for youth and Lions.

Benefits for Youth
The Lions Young Ambassadors Award offers youth these benefits:

- Encourages them to seek experience in community involvement, leadership and public speaking
- Broadens awareness of community service opportunities and organizations
- Sharpens interview and communication skills
- Recognizes the value of their achievements.

Benefits for Lions
The Young Ambassadors Award offers Lions these benefits:

- Furthers the Lions motto, “We Serve,” by encouraging young people to pursue community service involvement
- Renews Lions members’ enthusiasm and commitment to youth and service, through exposure to committed, enthusiastic young leaders
- Strengthens public awareness of Lions and their youth and service initiatives
- Introduces young people to future service and leadership opportunities.

Getting Started at the District Level
The first requirement for involvement with the Lions Young Ambassadors of the 21st Century Award is a decision by the district cabinet to sponsor the award program. The award may be combined with other existing youth award programs. The district governor should appoint a chairman responsible for coordinating the award program. It is recommended that this Lion be part of the district’s Lions Opportunities for Youth committee.

This guide contains suggestions for creating and administering a Lions Young Ambassadors of the 21st Century Award program at the district, multiple district or constitutional area level. For ease of presentation, the suggestions are written for the district-level award chairman. Please interpret the wording as needed to apply to your level, whether district, multiple district or constitutional area.
Program Overview

Candidate Selection: Local Lions clubs each select one candidate for district-level participation. This young person (suggested ages 15-19) may be an outstanding recipient of the Lions Young Leaders in Service Award; a participant in other local Lions youth initiatives, including Leo clubs; or other youth in the community. The club’s Lions Opportunities for Youth Chairman oversees administration of the Young Ambassadors of the 21st Century Award program.

Written Application: The candidate and the club Lions Opportunities for Youth Chairman prepare a written application and submit it to the district before an established deadline date. Districts may want to consider conducting preliminary judging and interviews at the zone or region levels, with selected candidates advancing to the district level.

Evaluations and Interviews: The Lions district conducts an evaluation and interview process to select its Young Ambassador of the 21st Century. Selection is based on achievements (as reflected on the written application), an interview with a panel of judges and presentation of a five-minute speech.

Public Recognition: The district Young Ambassador of the 21st Century is recognized at a district-level event and through press releases. The district may present the recipient with a monetary award to be used for an academic scholarship or to further the recipient’s community service involvement.

Next Level: The Young Ambassador of the 21st Century may advance to an award program at the multiple district level, if such exists.

Steps to Establish and Administer a Successful Award Program

Step 1: Gather Information

Become familiar with the Young Ambassadors of the 21st Century Award program and consider its role in your Lions Opportunities for Youth initiatives. As you begin to plan the program, consider:

- Ways in which the Young Ambassadors program can complement the district’s other youth initiatives
- Existing programs and events, such as a district conference or convention, that might serve as a source of candidates or an opportunity to conduct judging
- Criteria for eligibility and for judging
- Procedures for involving Lions clubs, selecting a recipient and recognizing the annual Young Ambassador of the 21st Century
- Budget, including operational costs and awards for the candidates and winner.

Step 2: Assign Duties

Recruit a committee to set up the award program. Individual committee members might accept the following responsibilities (please note that these roles may be combined):

- Lions Opportunities for Youth Committee Chairman
  - Ensure that the Lions Opportunities for Youth committee understands and supports the program.
  - Request regular updates from the Young Ambassador of the 21st Century.
  - Oversee budget.

- Event Chairman
  - This Lion would be responsible for arranging and managing one or more events for application judging, interviews, speeches and recognition. Detailed suggestions are provided in Step 8.

- Public Relations Chairman
  - This Lion, who may be the district Public Relations Chairman, would be responsible for creating and distributing press releases and serving as a liaison with the news media. Detailed suggestions are provided in Step 9.

Checklist for the Young Ambassadors Award Chairman

- Set up a committee to establish criteria and procedures for the Young Ambassadors program.

</tbody>
</table>
Step 5: Publicize and Promote

Promote the program to Lions clubs and solicit nominations.

Prepare and distribute application materials. Inform all Lions clubs about the Young Ambassadors of the 21st Century Award program and encourage their participation. Distribute information about procedures and deadlines. Provide application forms and contact information.

Use every available means of communication to reach local clubs.

- Mail a personalized letter and flyer to each club’s president, and follow up with a phone call.
- Speak at zone, region and district meetings.
- Ask the district governor to promote the program during club visits.
- Include information in district publications (newsletters, updates, etc.) and on its Web site.
- Send e-mail messages to clubs.
- Promote club participation in Young Ambassadors program by making it a criterion for district awards and contests that recognize local clubs.

Suggested Sources of Candidates
Lions clubs may find award candidates via:

- Leo clubs
- Schools
- Other youth organizations
- Recipients of the Lions Young Leaders in Service award
- Prior year’s candidates (if still age-eligible)
- Places where young people volunteer
- Faith communities
- Community agencies that address service or youth
- Personal friends and family
- Professional contacts.

Support Participating Clubs
Continue to communicate with club Lions Opportunities for Youth Chairmen throughout the period they are involved with the Young Ambassadors program. Provide materials, be available to answer questions, keep them informed and check their progress. Most important, personally and publicly acknowledge the role they play in the program’s success.

Sample Club Packet
Develop a packet that provides information for Lions clubs. The packet might be mailed to all clubs or distributed to clubs’ Lions Opportunities for Youth Chairmen at a district-level event. Here are some items to include:

- Personalized letter that details the program’s benefits and asks the club to participate
- Document with complete program guidelines, including eligibility and judging criteria, awards, dates and club responsibilities
- Youth candidate application form
- Judges’ rating sheet (for reference in preparing the candidate)
Step 6: Organize Judging
Recruit and instruct a judging panel. Prepare and provide judging materials.

Determine which of the following potential responsibilities will be given to judges:

• Review and rate candidates’ written applications (options: in advance of judging event or at judging event)
• Prepare questions for candidate interviews
• Ask candidates questions during face-to-face interviews and rate their responses and presentation
• Observe and rate candidates’ speeches
• Ask candidates related questions following their speeches, and rate their responses
• Interact with candidates during a reception, meal or other activity as part of the judging event
• Provide written and/or oral feedback to candidates
• Participate in the awards presentation.

Recruit Judges
To ensure objectivity, the judging panel should consist of three to five prominent leaders who are neither Lions members nor associated with the youth candidates in any way. Also recruit a reserve judge, who agrees to serve if another judge withdraws.

The judging panel should represent a cross-section of the geographic region served by your Lions district. Judges should relate well with young people and represent a variety of respected organizations, institutions, businesses and agencies. It is also recommended that the panel represent the district’s diversity of cultures, ages and genders. Sources of judges might include:

• Government officials
• Youth-related government agencies
• Educational institutions and organizations
• Businesses
• Faith-based groups
• Media
• Youth-serving organizations
• Young people who have received other service awards.

Contact each prospective judge personally, as early as possible, starting with the individuals you would most like to recruit. If you know of a Lions member who is acquainted with the prospective judge, ask the Lion to help with your initial contact.

Immediately after a judge agrees to serve, mail a thank-you letter that also confirms information about the program and the judging event. Indicate when you will supply further details and materials.

Prepare Judging Materials
The criteria and process to be used for judging candidates are essential information for sponsoring Lions clubs, candidates and judges. Prepare and distribute materials that clearly define what weight or value will be given to each criterion. Create a rating sheet or other document judges can use to record their evaluations, and send it to them in advance. Also make enough copies so each judge has one document per candidate during the judging event. A Sample Judge’s Rating Sheet is included in this guide.
Inform Judges
Help judges prepare for the judging event by sending them, in advance:

- Overview and goals of the Lions Young Ambassadors for the 21st Century Award program
- Outline of the award application and selection process
- Details of the date, time and location when judging will occur
- Judging panel guidelines and responsibilities
- Specific requests for information to provide or responsibilities to fulfill in advance of the judging event
- Copy of the youth candidate application form
- Copy of the judging materials (such as a rating sheet)
- Expense reimbursement policies, procedures and forms (if appropriate)
- Your complete contact information.

After you have mailed this information, call all judges to confirm they have received it and to answer their questions. Also call shortly before the judging event to confirm details.

Meet with Judges
At the start of the judging event, meet with the judging panel to review procedures and expectations. You may wish to:

- Review the event’s agenda and the judging process
- Explain how to use the judging materials and guidelines
- Allow time for judges to discuss how they will work together, including which questions to ask, procedures and order for questioning, use of time, etc.

Step 7: Plan the Event
Plan one or more events for application judging, interviews, speeches and recognition. Work with the Award Event Chairman to arrange for specific activities.

Make decisions about the many details of event preparation, then ensure someone is assigned responsibility for each. Event-related logistics might include:

- Date, taking into consideration: judges’ availability, candidates’ availability, availability of facility and other scheduled Lions events
- Location, taking into consideration: travel distances; availability of appropriate facilities; availability of host Lions club; how location will

Checklist for the Young Ambassadors Award Event Chairman
- Help determine event date(s) and location(s).
- Research and recommend facility. Schedule event with facility.
- Assign responsibilities for the event’s logistics and activities.
- Coordinate with Young Ambassadors Award Chairman and others.
- Determine room assignments and set-up for each activity.
- Confirm all arrangements and responsibilities.
- Before the event begins, check that everything is ready. Test all audiovisual equipment.
- During the event, be available to answer questions and solve problems.
- After the event, check that all bills are correct and are paid on time.
- Thank everyone who helped.
affect availability of judges, media reporters, speakers, etc.

• Facility, taking into consideration: activities to be held/number of meeting rooms needed; ease of access, parking, etc.; availability of food service; quality; cost
• Meals and menus (if any)
• Accommodation reservations/arrangements (if needed).

Share Information
Inform judges, sponsoring Lions clubs and candidates about the event. Send them advance information about the exact location, date, times and agenda.

Set Up Facilities and Supplies
Consider room set-up and supplies needed for each activity that is part of the event. For example, your event might include:

• Food functions (meals, receptions, snack breaks, etc.)
• Judges’ orientation
• Candidates’ orientation
• Application review
• Interviews

• Candidate speeches (with audience)
• Waiting/informal times for candidates and chaperones
• Displays of candidates’ community service projects
• Feedback session between judges and candidates
• Feedback session for sponsoring Lions clubs
• Award presentation ceremony.

Identify needed items such as chairs, tables, paper, pens, microphones, podiums, beverages, food, signs and printed materials. Make sure someone is in charge of providing and setting up each item.

Step 8: Publicize the Award Program
Publicize the Young Ambassadors program, candidates and recipient. Awareness will build both the quality and quantity of award program participation. Consider developing:

• News release that announces the program’s launch
• Articles for club and district publications or Web sites
• “Talking points” about the award for district officers to use when addressing Lions clubs and the public
• Sample news release Lions clubs can use to announce the program and recruit candidates.

Recognize Results
Continue to focus public attention as the award process proceeds. Consider developing:
• News releases to announce the candidates
• Sample news release a Lions club can use to announce its candidate
• Candidate profiles to appear in district publications or on Web site, or to send to media reporters
• Invitations for media reporters to attend the judging event and award presentations and view displays of candidates’ community service projects
• News releases for judges to submit to their company or professional newsletters
• News release announcing and profiling the young person chosen as your Young Ambassador of the 21st Century, accompanied by a photograph of the award presentation.

Step 9: Follow Up
Finish up details and keep records to ensure an even better award program in the future. Thank all supporters in person and with a written thank-you note. Send letters to all candidates and sponsoring Lions clubs. Congratulate them on their participation, and thank them for their efforts. Have your Young Ambassador and several Lions leaders send thank-you letters to judges for their time and their expert involvement. If appropriate, write a brief article for your district publications, thanking key volunteers.

If you were pleased with the services provided by the host facility or other vendors, send them a thank-you letter, also.

Evaluate
Review what went well and what could be improved in the future. Ask others for their feedback and suggestions. Write a report, including specific details about procedures. List suggestions for improving the award program.

Involves Your Young Ambassador
Serving as your Lions Young Ambassador of the 21st Century might entail some future involvement by the selected youth. Consider whether your Young Ambassador may have a role as:

• Speaker to other youth, encouraging community service involvement
• Lions youth spokesperson to the press
• Delegate to Lions events in your district
• Participant in Lions multiple district and constitutional area opportunities for youth.

If such roles are anticipated, make sure a Lions leader has responsibility for informing and directing the Young Ambassador’s involvement.

Acknowledgments
The suggestions presented in this guide are based in part on youth award programs in Multiple District 105 (British Isles and Ireland) and Multiple District 201 (Australia and Papua New Guinea).
